Dear Friends,

Welcome to the 115th Central Missouri Polled Hereford Breeders Association sale. Our association is very excited about the change in location and date. We believe that moving our sale day closer to the time for green grass will better suit the needs of our buyers. The consignors have brought you their best. The progeny of the very best sires in the industry like Revolution, Logic, Hyalite On Target 936, KCF Bennett Summit B261 ET, NJW 736 W18 Home Ranch 45Z ET, LLC Back N Time ET and Feltons 517 and are offered in this sale.

It is a great time to be in the beef cattle business. The demand for beef is growing. Feed cost are on there way down. And green grass is just a around the corner. The international market is starting to open up with the growing demand for american beef in Japan and China. When the grass turns green good quality cows will be extremely hard to find. There are several groups of young heifers in this sale that are half sisters that will put consistency in your herd while remaining productive for many years to come. The fertility, longevity, disposition and efficiency of the Hereford breed is unsurpassed. A study in England proved that for the same amount of feed, you could feed 106 Hereford cows or 100 of the same size Angus based cows.

The combined feed efficiency and heterosis of the hereford bull has caused the demand to exceed the supply. There several high quality service age bulls as well as young prospects in this sale. If you are looking for a bull don't miss this opportunity as a Hereford bull will be hard to find come breeding season. On April 11, 2020 CMPHBA will offer some of the best Herefords in the breed. Don't miss this opportunity to improve your cattle herd and decrease the amount of hay and feed needed to reach your production goals.

Please call if you need further information, or go to www.missourihereford.com for updated information. Frank Flaspohler

She is a solid maternal cow with great udder attachment and milk production. She has a smooth feminine blend throughout. This is a great chance at a cow to improve udder quality and raise phenotypically superior calves.

She is a maternal powerhouse. She has a nice level udder and topline. She has good feet and legs filling her tracks while she walks. She is moderately framed and will be an efficient grass converter.

HOME SWEET HOME

PROTECTING YOUR HOME FROM PROBATE COURT

Home is where your heart is. It's where you take refuge from winter blizzards and summer storms. And for most of us, our home is also our greatest asset. When we worry about what will happen to our belongings after we pass away, our home is often the most important possession we consider in passing on to the future.

Missouri law offers several great options in helping pass on the home to future generations. Some people choose a Last Will as the method for determining what will happen to their home after they pass away. A Will can be simple, easy and often, effective for this purpose. But many people do not realize that with only a Will, the family home must still go through the process of Probate Court.

The beneficiary deed is a fairly new addition to Missouri's options in estate planning. Unlike the Will, a beneficiary deed does not go before the Probate Court, and the transfer does not wait several months for a court's approval. Instead, the deed simply becomes effective upon the individual's death, and the property is automatically transferred to those designated in the deed. The deed is also a relatively simple and inexpensive method to plan for the future of one's home.

Joint tenancy and common titles to property can also be a good method to provide effective property transfer. Particularly for couples or company partners, joint tenancy can be an excellent estate planning tool. On the down side, while a joint tenancy avoids Probate, it does require the surrender of some property rights prior to one's death, giving up some control.

Other methods, such as trusts, are more detailed, and often more expensive. However, each individual's needs are always unique, and given the importance of ensuring the work of your life is well provided for, it is often best to seek professional advice. A carefully drafted estate plan can provide a sound future for everything you have worked hard to accomplish.
